Travel Study Makes an Impact

USC Lancaster's Travel Study

Program has provided opportunities for students and faculty to travel both within the US and abroad since 2004. This past summer, students gathered supplies for Ukrainian refugees and delivered them during their travel study experience to Eastern Europe. Twenty-eight large suitcases full of medical supplies, diapers, clothes, and so much more were donated. The students got to help unpack the items in Krakow, Poland, and even met some of the people the supplies will assist. This was all made possible by donations from faculty, staff, civic groups, and many community members. Nick Jones, Lancer Alum, had this to say about his experience, "I will forever be grateful for the efforts of those who made this trip happen, as it allowed me to enhance my understanding of the world." Travel study can be an integral part of the college experience, and more students can benefit. Please contact us if you are interested in supporting the Travel Study Program.

The campus will continue to serve all types of students including dual credit and senior citizens in Indian Land and surrounding communities. Apple Lab Openings

In March 2021, Governor Henry McMaster awarded $6 million of the Governor's Emergency Education Relief (GEER) funds to the University of South Carolina, which established eight Apple computer labs statewide. The network includes a satellite lab in the Bradley Arts and Sciences Building at USC Lancaster and a mini lab in the Lancaster County Branch Library in the town of Kershaw. The USC Lancaster campus and the Kershaw Library Branch are all located within 15 miles of a broadband desert, according to the South Carolina Broadband Map. These labs will assist in providing reliable technology and internet access to local communities.

Lancaster Players

Established in 2009, the USC Lancaster Players group was created to promote the theatrical arts allowing students to participate in various productions throughout the school year. Theater enables this group to reach the larger student body and the local community with its collaborative work. The USC Lancaster Players, led by Professor Marybeth Berry and Mr. Tyrie Rowell, provides opportunities that bring creativity, social awareness, authenticity in relationships, and better communication with peers, the university, and the community-at-large. USC Lancaster Theatre students have won numerous awards and have had amazing opportunities to work with international theatre artists over the years. In fact, individuals from our theatre program have been invited to perform a piece at the 19th International Festival of Making Theatre in Athens, Greece, in July 2023. For more information or to purchase individual show or season tickets visit sc.edu/lancaster/usclancasterplayers.

Esports Ribbon Cutting

Lancer esports launched this fall in a newly renovated space in Hubbard Hall. The team currently has 10 participants and has the capacity for up to twenty participants. The ribbon-cutting event was held in December 2022, and this new student activity is a great recruiting tool and adds a new dynamic to campus life. Students play Call of Duty: Warzone 2 and Overwatch 2 against various collegiate teams all over the United States. Esports is one of the fastest-growing sports in the world, and we are excited to have a new space for students to enjoy on our campus.
